Heavenly Celebration

A “Beside the Still Waters” devotional by Lyndon Christopher.

People have many different reasons to celebrate. Often celebration becomes a party. As followers of Christ, we have cause for celebration that is far nobler than the world’s reasons for partying. Christian celebration honors God and rejoices in truth. It is wholesome, pure, lovely, and glorious. Just as we pray in the Lord’s Prayer, “Thy will be done in earth, as it is in heaven,” so we rejoice in the same things that Heaven rejoices in.

Maybe we can remember a time when we lost something of value to us, and later we found it again. My most memorable experience like that was when we lost our family’s parakeet. I well remember our feeling of joy when we found him and saw that he was alive and well. If we on earth rejoice over a pet that was lost and is found, how much more does God in Heaven rejoice over a lost person who comes to Him in repentance!

As birthdays are special times of celebration, especially for children, so a new birth in Christ should also be a cause of celebration for God’s children. We rejoice not only that a lost one has been found but also that a soul has been delivered from slavery to Satan. Weddings are another special time of godly celebration. It is surely a joy to see a man and woman come together by God’s leading into a lifelong relationship. Someday there will be a wedding in Heaven. We cannot even begin to imagine the joy of that glorious celebration. At the great marriage supper of the Lamb, the Lord Jesus will take His bride (All those redeemed by His blood) to Live with Him forever in His heavenly home.
